WHEELING, FEBRUARY 8, 1895.

Erring Brethren. Some of the Republican brethren in Charleston, whom the INTELLIGENCES holds in high esteem personally, evidently believe that it is treason for a newspaper to criticise the public sets of public men whom it helped to elect to office. They will not, however, dispute the same paper's right to defend them from malicious partisan attacks from the other side, nor to come loyally to the support of the Republican cause when it comes again before the people. The course of these gentlemen, who seem to take a one-sided view of the prerogatives of a public journal, will not deter the INTELLIGENCER from pursuing the course it believes to be best for the whole Republican party, and for the The action of the editor of the INTEL

LIGENCER yesterday in requesting his friends not to antagonize Speaker Edward's resolution endorsing himself and censuring a certain INTELLIGENCES dispatch, doubtless saved the resolution from defeat. It did no violence to the INTELLIGENCER man's Republicanism and will not disturb his peace of mind, while the speaker was humored in his desire for a "vindication." The house didn't care about it one way or another, and nobody's feelings are burt. In the meantime, as is stated above, the INTELLIGENCER will continue, undisturbed, to fight the battles of Republicanism and protection, while the speaker will occupy the unique position of a presiding officer going upon the floor to ask for a vote of confidence in himself.

Tue Register forgets that the school books which the INTELLIGENCER does not want changed, because a change would impose an extra cost to the people, are books contracted for by a Democratic legislature, and that our contemporary itself has taken a position eimilar to that of the INTELLIGENCER.

The Bond Bill Killed.

The administration bill to authorize the issue of $500,000,000 of gold bonds was killed vesterday in the house of representatives. While this result was not unexpected, owing to the widely divergent views that existed among members of Congress, it is a great disappointment to those who had hoped that the method of relief proposed by the President would be applied, unless something better could be devised in the meantime. It now seems that the country can have little hope of the present Congress doing anything in the way of financial legislation.

Under the circumstances there is nothing left for the administration to do but to negotiate another bond loan, an alternative that was admitted from the start, in the event of the failure o the bill. It was stated yesterday that Bankers Morgan and Belmont, of New York, who have been in ashington consulting with the treasury officials, have made the President, on behalf of their London clients, an offer to take the whole $160,000,000 at a high rate of interest.

It is also stated, in this connection that the President hesitated to accept the offer, on account of the high rate demanded. The action of Congress, however, leaves no other course open for him, as a grave crisis might ensue if the gold reserve is permitted to go much Whether this fear is well founded or not depends on the way you look at it. The President himself is quoted as expressing his faith that the American people have confidence in the government and its ability to perform every obligation.

The President is right in this view in the abstract, but the fact remains that the dilly-dallying of a Democratic Congress, and its repeated exhibition of its incompotency to deal with a great financial crisis, is not calculated to strengthen confidence. Whatever there is remaining is based on the assurance that a Republican Congress is soon to come into power, and the hope that the representatives of a party that has brought the country through more than one crisis and preserved its credit will be able to do something.

The Republicans' trighty promises of Important legislation have unideous dwindled down to a protracted and scandarous warugle over whether Smith's primer shall be retained in the schools or Jones's substituted. It will next be in order to move to adopt Brown's A B C caed instead of Jennima's.—Register.

question. The files of the Register of four years ago would furnish some interesting comparisons with recent de velopments, and they would not be at all to the disadvantage of the Republican legislature.

Partisanship and School Books. The Register deliberately, not so say maliciously, misropresents the attitude of Republican members of the legislature regarding the adoption of a textbook on political economy. The INTEL-LIGENCER submits to the Register that when it says there is a proposition to introduce a partisau political book in the place of Dole's "American Citizen," which itself is a partisan affair, it publishes what is not true. There has been no such proposition made. On the contrary the Republican committees of both houses have recommended Dole's

What the Republican press and those members who have opposed Dole's book have said, has not been in favor of any particular text-book-none has been named-their comments being based solely on the partisan free trade character of Dolo's work. They have simply advocated the adoption of some book that treats the tariff in an unbiased manner, giving each side of the question a fair show, in order that the student may be instructed in what each of the two theories-protection and free trade-has to say for itself. The Register will surely, if it is inclined to be fair, acknowledge the justice of this position.

Talking about partisauship, the Register itself indulges in the rankest kind of partisanship, when, in its editorial upon this subject, it assumes that the free trade doctrine so exclusively advocated by the book in question is the only true doctrine. In this assumption it takes the partisan free trade side, and refuses to admit that there is any other doctrine. Public educators, those who are entrusted with the instruction of the youth of the state, are not expected to take so narrow a view of the matter, and the text-books placed in their hands are expected, in the treatment of economic creeds, to recognize the existence of all, and not to bias the mind of the pupit in favor of any-especially when it happens to be a question of issue in partisan politica.

Republican members of the legislature and the Repblicau press are not "making war on the school books of our common school." They are advocating the best at the least cost to the people, and are opposing the introduction of partisan works on political sconomy and history. If this be partisanship, the Register is welcome to make the most of it.

In this connection, and by way of conclusion, it may be interesting to the Register to know that the publishers of Dole's "American Citizen" have admitted the partisan character of its present chapter on the tariff, to the extent of announcing that it will be rewritten on non-partisan lines, and that hereafter the tariff instruction will be fair and unbiased.

Wirnour desiring to embarrass our neighbor, the esteemed Democratic organ, we again suggest that it has not yet read Governor MacCorkle out of the party for signing the bill creating Mingo county, which measure it repeatedly denounced as a wicked partisan Republican scheme; nor has it censured the Democratic members of the legislature for voting for the bill.

The Gas Shortage.

The correspondent signing himself Long Suffering Consumer," who writes concerning the shortage of gas and the company's responsibility is a little hasty in criticising a comment in yesterday's Intermidences. The only point referred to in that article was that the present shortage of gas is due in part to the extraordinary demand, forced by the extremely cold snap, and that in ordinary weather there is not so much cause for complaint. The point made by our correspondent has to do with an entirely different phase of the question, and is well taken.

It is certainly within the power of the proper authorities to compel the gas company to fulfill its contract or give a good reason why it cannot be done. It is very apparent, in cold weather at least, that the company has undertaken more than it is able to accomplish, namely, to furnish gas to the homes and the business establishments at the same time.

The franchise calls for a satisfactory heating of the homes of the people, and does not contemplate that they shall be made to suffer in order that the company may distribute its supply of fuel beyond due limits. To keep to the terms of this agreement is the first duty of the company, and to see that it is done is the duty of the city council.

A LETTER from Mr. R. C. Campbell, published this morning, is an intensely interesting description of a wonderful part of the United States, about which very little is known, though it is much talked about. The proverbial climate of Arizona, the Yuma region in particular the great Colorado desert and the gigantic irrigation plan to render tertile the new uncultivated plain, are all described in an interesting way.

A CORRESPONDENT calls attention to the status of the anti-pool seiling bill, which passed the senate and seems to be "hung up" in the house of delegates. He attributes the "hang up" to the work of a lobby that was sent from Wheeling for that purpose. The bill will probably be yet called up in the house, and the strongth of the lobby will then be thoroughly tested,

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE POOL-SELLING BILL.

A Citizen Calls Attention to Its Status.
What the Wheeling Lobby Is Doing,
To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Sin:-Some weeks ago a bill passed the state senate prohibiting pool-selling in the state, except on fair grounds during fair week. Every parent having boys, every well disposed law-abiding citizen of my acquaintance rejoiced at citizen of my acquaintance rejoiced at the prospect of having this bill become a law. Just as soon as it became known that the bill had passed the senate, a powerful lobby was organized in this city and Charleston was invaded.

Some members of this lobby are prominent Democratic politicians, with whom the "knights of the green cloth" seem to have a pull. Well, after several days of suspense word comes from the state capitol that the bill for the suppression of pool-selling is "hung up," and that if it should eyer get through the house, it will be in such shape that its patron, whoever he is, would not recognize it.

It is also rumored on the streets that one of the members of the house of deleone of the members of the house of dele-gates from this county has undertaken to see that the bill is killed. I think it is about time that our representatives in Charleston were given to understand what is expected from them on this question. Strike down the iniquitous policy shop and pool-selling business.

They are twin infamies. Anti-PoolWheeling, W. Va., Feb. 6, 1895.

THE FOREIGN POWERS.

The Position They Will Take on the Chi-nese-Japan Treaty For Peace. London, Feb. 7 .- A dispatch to the Times from Paris, says that some of the Russian envoys have received instructions as to the attitude which Russia, England and France, and through Russia's intervention, the United States, intend to take on the questions raised by the war between China and Japan, According to the Times' correspondent it has been decided that the eventual it has been decided that the eventual intervention of these powers at the proper moment shall be absolutely disinterested. China will be asked in her own interests as well as in those of the civilized world to open her ports, seeing that the present system has led to China's powerlessness and ruin. The powers will wait until China admits here. self vanquished and sincerely negotiates for peace. It will then be pointed out to Japan that Europe cannot allowher to annex an inch of the Chi-nese inland. But the same impossibility does not exist in regard to other annexations which will be open to discussion. There will be no intervention concerning vessels, arms and other booty nor as to the war indemnity. This question must be settled between the combatants. No objection will be raised to Japan retaining certain positions as pledges of payment. But no commercial stipulations to the disadvantage of the powers will be permitted. The whole world is to profit by any opening of ports or liberty to penetrate into the interior of China. Finally ity does not exist in regard to other antrate into the interior of China. Finally the powers will insist that the Chinese currency in future is to be on the European system, in order to facilitate the new foreign loan to which China will be obliged to resort.

IN WASHINGTON.

What is Thought of the Non-Interference Tactics at the National Capital.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.-The cable dispatch from London showing a purpose on the part of Great Britain, France and Russia to interfere at the proper stage of hostilities between Japan and China has attracted attention in diplo-China has attracted attention in diplomatic circles here, and has acquired additional significance when taken in conjunction with the recent speech from the throne of Queen Victoria. By the terms of the understanding, as reported, Japan will not be permitted to acquire an inch of territory on the Chinese mainland. This, of course, would provent her from retaining Port Arthur or Wei-Hai-Wei, the great Chinese naval strongholds, or any part of Manchuria, which she has occupied after hard fightwhich she has occupied after hard fight-But, on the other hand, it is lieved here that the statement carries a distinct intimation that Japan may claim the great island of Formosa, which is a mos important strategic posses It has been confidently expected gion. sion. It has been confinently expected here that the European powers would intorvene between Japan and China whenever it should appear that the latter country was really vanquished and was suing in vain upon reasonable terms, but so far as the dispatch referred to indicate any possibility of action in to indicates any possibility of action in that line by the United States in conthat line by the United States in con-junction with other powers, it is clearly erroneous, for it can be positively stated that under no conditions can the Presi-dent be induced to depart so far from our established policy of non-interven-tion. It is no cause of surprise here that Gormany, too, will refrain from joining in an intervention which would be surely distasteful to Japan, for the latest reports from our consuls in the latter country show that the German traders are making extraordinary progress in supplanting all other foreigners, even Americans, in securing control of the valuable Japanese foreign trade.

The Iron Trade.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 7.--The Iron Trade Review this week says: The iron trade is still compelled to get most of its encouragement from the get most of its encouragement from the inger posts that stand along the way pointing to better demand farther on. Those, moreover, are not as numerous as some prophets of improvement had expected to find. The developments of a single week under the conditions that a single week under the conditions that have marked the new year thus far, are of little significance, except as they help to establish the trend of things; and the week under review, while it has brought, here and there, some signs of promise, has confirmed the view that the ascent, while it may be certain, is very slow. Few are to be found now, with confidence that the spring demand that is everywhere counted on will bring any appreciable betterment. Large work now being contracted for—like the Chicago elevated way with its 25,000 tous—is being taken at the lowest 28,000 tous—is being taken at the lowest recorded prices; and the smaller con-tracts, that are expected to engage the mills while they are waiting for the specifications on big ones, are being contended for at almost the same eagerness.

Reports from various selling centers, as they touch on the passing phases of the market, agree that pig iron sales are made at inside prices and that the pressure of furnace stocks is more ap-parent with each week, both in view of the very moderate current buying and the slow rate of shipment to foundries on old contracts.

He was taken to the asylum.for the insame at Spencer, where he re-mained until about three weeks ago, when he made his escape, and every effort to find him has proven truttless. Word received here to-day from Spencer says nothing has been heard of him. Before coming to Parkersburg he was a well known practicing physician of Braxton county.

The case of the Caldwell Oil Company, of Baltimore, vs. Henry Newman, was settled in the United States court to-day by a compromise. The land directly in dispute was about eleven hundred acres, which was claimed by Mr. Newman. By the compromise he gets 416 acres, and each side pays its own costs. Yesterday afternoon a well-known old man named George w. Johnson, was found dead in a small house in the rear of his brother's residence on Market The board of trade at a meeting last night adopted unanimously a resolution condemning senate bill 45, the preferred creditors' bill. Great suffering is reported from some parts of the Kanawha valley from the terrible weather. Considerable small stock has been frozen to death.
